

Abhilasha Programme

Introduction: Abhilasha is a 15 month long residential coding training programme in collaboration with Bajaj Finserv, VidyaBhawan Society, Navgurukul, and Koita Foundation. Under this programme 15-month coding training will be provided to 100 girls/women belonging to underprivileged backgrounds. Ensuring employment in companies associated with this sector after completion of training is also a part of the programme.

Objective: The programme aims at developing modern skills at par with B. Tech (Computer Science) degree in students from diverse backgrounds. The major objective of project is to provide higher education that is strongly linked to the employability of the girls from marginalized communities by giving them access to aspirational jobs like Software Engineering, Analytics, etc. The 15 months residential program will equip these girls with necessary skills and also provide them with the confidence and practical exposure to solve real-world problems.

With the above objective, this program was started with about 35 girls from June 2023. Currently 82 girls are enrolled. All these girls are staying here and learning basic mathematics, number system, logic gate, if else loop, array, java script code conversion and html.

Apart from this, girls from different areas are learning by living together, helping each other, supporting each other, learning English and moving towards increasing their self-confidence.
